

YES! Workshop Sliding Scale

Rate structure and descriptions adapted from AORTA Co-op and SHIP

Our sliding scale is an intentional effort to distribute resources equitably between organizations we work with - including universities, nonprofits, public schools, and community organizations. Paying at the higher end of the scale – the Redistribution Rate – makes it possible for YES! to work with public schools and other organizations with less access to funding at little to no cost to them.

Solidarity Rate	Sustainability Rate	Base Rate	Redistribution Rate
$200 - $500	$500 - $1,000	$1,000 - $1,500	$1,500 - $2,000
For organizations with an annual budget $\leq$ \$5,000 and/or that are led by those most affected by structural oppression.	For organizations with annual budgets between \$5,000 and \$10,000	For organizations with annual budgets between \$10,000 and \$25,000	For organizations with annual budgets over \$25,000

Additional Costs:

- Recording the workshop for internal use: additional 10% of workshop fee
- Costs associated with travel, lodging, and per diem expenses for in-person training requiring significant travel

Please note:

These rates are guidelines. We understand that large organizational budgets don't always mean lots of money available for health education or professional development. We encourage you to think of creative ways to cover the cost (such as sharing the cost with other departments, groups, or allied organizations). If you are unable to pay within the range suggested for your organization, please let us know and we will discuss other options. We want to make it work for both of us!
